Call to Worship

The hands of Christ that had reached out to touch the sick and the lame to heal them and to hold the children to bless them, were folded quietly on his breast.

Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here, for he has risen, as he said.

The mouth of Christ, which had proclaimed the words of eternal life, was silenced and still.

Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here, for he has risen, as he said.

The eyes of Christ, which could see both the suffering of people and the glory of God, were closed in death.

Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here, for he has risen, as he said.

The ears of Christ, which had heard the cries of the poor and suffering were deaf to the sounds of night.

Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here, for he has risen, as he said.

The heart of Christ, filled with love and compassion, lay Empty and lifeless in his chest.

Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here, for he has risen, as he said.

The blood of Christ, shed for the sins of the world, stained the linen cloth which wrapped him and bound him.

Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here, for he has risen, as he said.

The body of Christ given as the true bread from heaven, which had been scourged and nailed to a cross, lay broken on the cold hard stone.

Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here, for he has risen, as he said.

The body of Christ-given for you.

He is the head of the body, the church; he is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, that in everything he might be preeminent.
